Manton Marble, who, having sold himself to the copperhead party of the country, is doing most efficient work for it through the columns of the N. Y. World, took occasion to speak of Messrs. Lincoln and Johnson soon after their nomination as "a rail-splitting buffoon and a boorish tailor, both from the backwoods, both growing up in uncouth ignorance," etc. Those who know Mr. M. seeing his readiness to indulge in blackguardism and unjust personalities, retorted on him by showing the antecedents of the young man. It appears that some humane person took him from poverty and obscurity and educated him from "boorishness" up to a fitness for the ministry, which it was supposed he would enter, but it seems that instead he connected himself with two newspapers of anti-slavery predilections, on which he was for some time honorably employed. But those acquainted with him say he has become a renegade in religion and is false to the principles of liberty as everybody knows, and is now in the front rank of those most despicable of all traitors—northern copperheads. So keen were the thrusts made at this man, who sneers at self-made men, like the Union nominees for President and Vice President, that he has at last been compelled to devote a column in the World to an explanation of what he meant in his explanatory article referring to Messrs. Lincoln and Johnson. This advocate of the rights of Southern Aristocrats and traitors went a little too far for this latitude when he ridiculed self-made men, and he therefore attempted to plaster over his former article with a column of explanatory "sawdust."

Mirth if not Poetry.

The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial indulges in the following remarks touching the intellectual calibre of our Congressmen generally, which if not complimentary has the rare quality of being truthful. He says:

I have been several times tempted to throw out a few hints on the subject of electing Congressmen, which, if heeded, would, I think, bring about a very beneficial result. The man who fills the House of Representatives are, in nine cases out of ten, men who seek the office, and in about one in ten men whom the office seeks. The good people of the United States do not take a sufficient amount of pride in their representation in the National Legislature. In a State or great city, show, towns and cities vie with each other for the palm for Durham bulls, and short-horned heifers, but in what ought to be an exhibition of the assembled talent and wisdom of the country, they let everything go by default; and hence a great many Congressional elections are simply the result of a spirit of don't care a darnativeness on the part of those who exercise the right of suffrage. With due respect to the honorable gentlemen of the lower house, I may be permitted to say that an "intelligent foreigner" would be justified in the conclusion after hearing some of the debates in this Hall, that Congressmen were chosen by lottery or draft and that most of them furnished substitutes at that. People ought to pride themselves upon able and competent representatives at the capital, and not let the nominating conventions be carried by storm by demagogues, pipe layers, and executive committees. When we can elect republicans, let us have men who combine talent with principle, and where we must have Copperheads let us have men who possess the former even if they are minus the latter.

A CORRESPONDENT of the New York Herald, writing of the brilliant charge of the negro regiments on the fortifications at Petersburg, says: "When the negroes found themselves within the works of the enemy, no words could paint their delight. Numbers of them kissed the guns they had captured with extravagant satisfaction, and a feverish anxiety was manifested to get ahead and charge some more of the rebel works. A number of the colored troops were wounded, and a few killed in the first charge. A large crowd congregated, with looks of unutterable admiration, about Sergeant Richardson and Corporal Woboy, of the 23d United States colored regiment, who had carried the colors of their regiment, and been the first men in the works."

IMPORTANT IF TRUE.—The Boston Transcript states that a gentleman in a position to be well informed of the plans and intentions of the Government, says that the necessary documents were taken out in the Naval Expedition to form, in the places occupied by the troops, Territorial Governments to be in force until the authority of the United States is restored over an entire State, when the old State form will be re-established.

THE BARBERS in Troy, N. Y., have an association of a self-protecting kind, which has resolved to prosecute anybody who whaves or cuts hair on a Sunday hereafter. The penalty under the law is a dollar for each offence.

MASTER ROBERT LINCOLN, son of the President—jocosely called by his classmates, His Royal Highness the Prince of Rails, will graduate at Harvard College on the 24th of July next.

Ten six pieces of artillery captured by our forces before Petersburg were brought down to City Point. They were literally covered with blood, showing with what desperation they had been defended.

Grant, Meade, and Other Celebrities.

(Correspondence N. Y. Tribune.)

CHARLES CUT COOPER HOCAN, HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Monday, June 27, 1864.

You should see the splendid cavalcade, and hear the tramp and clangor of hoof and sabre, when Grant and Meade and their staffs and the whole mounted retinue of headquarters go sweeping by. Of course the small man on the small black horse leading the troop is Grant. If you did not know it before, the soldiers who rush out to the road, or half halt on the march, and point him out to each other, have told you. The small black horse, half a queen's pony, half a king's Bucephalus, with arched neck and champing bit, and small, alert, flexible ears, and short, mouse-hair, and great tail carried royally like a banner, whose form is symmetry, spite of the sloping hips that belong to all pacers, whose muscles are watch-springs, whose impatient air seems to resent his small size—this little black imp of a horse, a horse that is "all horse" is "Jeff Davis," and Grant is on his back.

The rider sits him with uncommon grace, controls him with one small gauntleted hand, never once regards the torrent of horsemen that follow, looks neither right nor left, but never fails to acknowledge with a quick gesture the salutes of the soldiers—all-absorbed, all-observant, silent, inscrutable, he controls and moves armies as he does his horse.

The rider at his side is not less worth marking well. His horse is the ideal war-horse, tall and powerful, and horse and rider look like a picture of belated knight of old, gaunt, tall, grizzled, with the large Roman nose of will and power, and wearing a slouch-hat, the wide brim bent down all round, but not concealing the lightning glance of eyes that are terrible in anger—such is Geo. G. Meade, noblest Roman of them all, relentless fighter, and good General, whose hoary and wise head, Grant does not, and the country should not, hesitate to acknowledge the greatest indebtedness.

The ride has been from Cold Harbor to Providence Church, a distance of ten miles, and is made in the last two hours of daylight. The location of the camp has been fixed, fires built, and inquiries are heard about the headquarters train, which must arrive before tents can be pitched and supper had. The evening is chilly, and great coats are taken from the pommels of saddles and put on. Boxes and bundles are thrown upon the ground to lie on, and all gather close to the crackling rail-fires, and wait for the wagons. Grant and Meade are engaged in conversation upon indifferent topics, apparently. Generals Hunt and Bernard discuss wines. General Ingalls sends a man every few minutes to find and hurry up the wagons. Mr. Washburne, here on a flying visit here, has gone to sleep his feet at the fire. Mr. Dana strides up and down as though the day has not offered sufficient exercise. About ten o'clock it is reported that the train will be up in an hour or two. In crossing a stream on a narrow dam, one or two wagons had been capsized, hence the delay. Mr. Dana remarks that it was "evidently a piece of dam(n) folly." Grant rises, steps toward the fire and says, "If we have nothing worse than this—"

The sentence was never finished. The correlative to the "if" may, however, be imagined. That it was not expressed was because at that instant the General took a brand from the fire and lighted his pipe, an action incompatible with speech. The messenger who brings the report as to the wagons has brought a supply of brand and butter and gingerbread, and a pair of water has been factored. Everybody lanches. After lunch all light pipes and smoke as vigorously and silently as Indians in council—waiting for the wagons. The writer, rolled in a single blanket, falls to sleep; at midnight is awakened to find tents pitched, everybody turned in, and fire flickering low.

DUST ON THE MARCH.—The heat and dust of to-day's marching are terrible. Dirt, dust, pulverization of earth into infinitesimal particles of concreted nastiness. Dirt, dust, soil no longer soil, but ashes, Powder, worse than that of guns, worse than any prescribed by physicians. Dirt, dust, ashes, powder.

Alluvium—crushed, ground, pulverized and powdered. Fine dirt, knee-deep to waste through. Impalpable dust, sky-high to breathe. A hundred thousand shirts, uncomfortable as the shirt of Ness. A hundred thousand skins, uncomfortable as the skin of Lamech after the lprosy of Enanah cleaved to him. Dirt, dust, ashes, as we go marching on.

Why, I have this week been all the way to Washington, that I might achieve the novel sensation of cleanliness, and now this march makes my last days worse than my first. I suspect the army has picked itself up and journeyed to the James river at the dictation of no strict military necessity. It will doubtless further the purpose of taking Richmond, but I believe this to be a subsidiary consideration. The paramount reason is to have a grand army washing-day, and no stream of less ablutatory capacity than the James will suffice. Dust! thou scourge of the great modern Virginia. Desert—ugh! ugh! ugh! I loath thee, and I draw thee as a scum from the Brest and Gathay and Oriental spices into my nostrils, and thou art laden with the severest distinct stinks of Cologne. I detest thee, and I strangle thee. I abominate thee, and take thee to my bosom. That which I would exorcise I chew. I am writhed and Iretch.—Times' Correspondence.

A SCRUB-HEADED boy having been brought up before the court as a witness, the following colloquy ensued:

"Where do you live?" said the Judge.

"Live with mother."

"Where does your mother live?"

"She lives with father."

"Where does he live?"

"He lives with the old folks."

"Where do they live?" says the Judge getting very red, as an audible snicker goes round the room.

"They live home."

"Where in thunder's their home?" roars the Judge.

"That's where I'm from," says the boy, sticking his tongue in a corner of his cheek, and slowly closing one eye on the Judge.

"Here, Mr. Constable," says the Court, "take the witness out and tell him to travel; he evidently does not understand the nature of an oath."

"You'd think different," says the boy, going towards the doorway, "if I was to once give you a cussin'!"

THE YEARS.—A writer whose life has passed the meridian, thus discourses upon the flight of time: "Forty years once seemed a long and weary pilgrimage to make. It now seems but a step. And yet along the way are broken shrines, where a thousand hopes have wasted to ashes. Foot-prints sapped under their drifting dust, green mounds, where the shadows even which the watering of tears; shadows even which we would not forget. We will garner the sunshine of those years, with and chastened step and hope, push on towards the evening where angelic light will soon be seen swinging where the waters are still and the storm never beats."

S. D. & H. W. SMITH'S AMERICAN ORGAN.

Among the different inventions originated and perfected by American ingenuity during the past twenty years, few are more surprising than the improvements in musical instruments, especially in reed instruments known as "Lied Organs," Harmoniums and Melodions. European taste has long seemed to have been satisfied with the Organ of Alexandre and Pleyel, although neither of those instruments added much real variety of tone, notwithstanding the makers have multiplied stops and sets of reeds, and by consequence the cost, to an extraordinary degree. The American Organ made by S. D. & H. W. Smith, Boston, may be said to have been a revelation to the musical world, whether as regards variety, power and economy of construction. All reed instruments made by the best manufacturers in this country are constructed on the same principle, viz: of forcing the air through the reeds by an exhaustive bellows, instead of forcing it through them by powerful pressure; and the "American Organ" differs from its competitors mainly in three points: 1st, The great care and thoroughness exercised in manufacture; 2nd, In the skillful voicing, giving thereby different qualities of tone as there are sets of reeds; and 3rd, The use of a reed-boring box, which admits naturally to the power of the instrument without detriment to its delicacy and sweetness. Any person possessing a musical box can readily appreciate this improvement by setting it in operation on a mantle or table, and then on a large empty box or barrel, and observing its vastly increased power and richness when in the latter position. In these three points—and they are certainly material ones—is superiority claimed for the American Organ of Messrs. S. D. & H. W. Smith, before the reed instruments of other makers.

The Messrs. Smith, being the most experienced and successful reed organ makers in Boston, having established themselves in 1827, and having equalled facilities with any other makers, have always kept themselves familiar with all improvements and inventions in their department, and they confidently assert their "AMERICAN ORGAN" to be unequalled in voicing, and unsurpassed by any, at home or abroad, in purity, sweetness and power of tone. The convenience for carrying varied expedients, such as the "table top" frame and the swell, and the ease with which change of stops may be made, render the American Organ, in skillful hands, capable of so much delicate expression and variety of effect as the expensive harmonium of Alexandre with their three registers, and which, undoubtedly for superior in durability, tone and power, has been half the cost. The demand in England for Smith's American Organ is steadily increasing, and can be regarded as a proof that it triumphantly stands the test of competition in their own market with the most celebrated European instruments.

WOOLEN FACTORY.

Janesville, Wis.

The subscriber at the Factory known as the

"STONE MILLS,"

on the Monterey Water Power, has two sets of wide machinery in full operation, and is now putting in the third set, making it the Largest Mill in the Northwest, and about three times as large as the other factories in the State.

Having a large establishment, he is enabled to supply better workmen, do business to better advantage and with more promptness, and offer to customers better inducements for their patronage than can be done at any other mill in the State.

Those who have used the cloth made at this mill, both by retail and wholesale for the past 15 years can bear witness to their superior quality. If other testimony were needed, the following from the dry goods article in the Chicago Tribune, of November 4th, 1863, might be added:

"The cloth in woolen goods is now unusually brisk, and rarely if ever have we seen such a large and varied stock in market. It is noticeable that the best quality of our domestic manufacturers, and quite a large assortment of Western goods are offered. Some of the best plain cashmeres in market at present are manufactured—not in England, nor France, nor even in the Eastern States—but in Wisconsin and in several portions of Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. The goods sent to our market from the 'Stone Mills,' Janesville, are exhibited by their agents, Brown Bros., of this city, to deserve special mention because of their excellence in every particular, and because we consider it our duty as a journalist to aid and foster home manufactures."

Customers may rely upon having their work done promptly, and from June 15th to Sept. 15th at the following extremely low rates.

TERMS OF EXCHANGE:

For 1 1/2 lbs. of wool a yard of Jean, Tweed or Union Cloth.

For 1 1/2 lbs. of wool a yard of Battinet or Flannel.

For 2 lbs. of wool a yard of Cashmere, either plain or fancy.

PRICES FOR MANUFACTURING:

50 lbs. or more of wool, from 15 to 25 cents per yard, according to the kind of cloth made.

Roll Carding, where the wools are 15 lbs. or more, 4 cents per lb.

Cloth Dressing of all kinds done from 10 to 20 cents per yard.

Persons living at a distance can send their wool by Railroad or by Express, with full directions, and have their cloth promptly returned to them.

19 BEAUTIFUL YEARS.

Sketches of a Girl's Life!

Written by her Sister,

with an Introduction by Rev. R. S. Foster, D. D.

This book contains the memoirs of Miss Mary Willard, who with her parents resided the most of her life near Janesville.

News From Europe.—By the arrival of the North American, we have five days later news from Europe.

The ship Rockingham from Calao for Queenstown was burned by the pirate Alabama, April 23. The Alabama was spoken on the following day by a vessel which has since arrived in London.

The London Conference has been extended to the 28th of June. No advance has been made in the settlement of the difficulties, and it is feared that hostilities will be resumed.

The Emperor of Russia has recalled his Ambassador from Rome. This is regarded as a mark of the Emperor's displeasure with the recent Allocation of the Pope relative to Poland.

Earl Russell in the English Parliament complained of the non-attention by the Washington Government to the representations made by Lord Lyons on the subject of Federal recruiting in Ireland.
